

SOBs MARCH AGAIN

RALLYING ONCE again are Porterville's Mystic Knights of the Supreme Order of Bushfaces, this time with a dual purpose (as if the SOBs need a purpose to rally 'round) 1. To raising money for the Porterville Museum fund; 2. To add a bit of color to Porter Putnam days October 17, 18, and 19; and 3. (there ain't no "3") At a meeting in the Mountain Lion saloon Monday evening, the more stalwart of the SOBs decided to meet again in the Mountain Lion saloon next Saturday at 1 P.M., from where, after proper planning, they will move out to sell Shaving Permits to Smoothpusses for One Buck each, money raised to go to the Museum fund; Carroll Simmons is in charge. They will also meet, 'guess where, Friday evening, under the guidance of Col. Robert Natzke, to lay plans for their part in the Porter Putnam Days event. In the above photos are a few of the Bushfaces, from left, top: Alan Hammond and Lyle Attebury, co-supreme bushfaces; B. J. Ladd (admiring what almost amounts to a mustache) Ivan Williamson. Bottom row: Bill Ellsworth, Spike Wilson, Walt Pratt, Gary Simmons, and Gene (Doc Small) Duncan.

Sacramento Senate Scene

By Howard Way

State Senator, Tulare County

Since the adjournment of the rather hectic Extraordinary Session of the Legislature during the early part of August it has been a welcome change to visit personally with many of you here at home.

A number of you have had problems of a specific nature which you have called to my attention. In some instances I have been able to assist you and in others I have found that my services were of little value. However, I want to be alerted to your problems and appreciate a chance to help you if I can.

With this thought in mind you will be interested to know that I have employed Mrs. Floyd E. Brown (Roberta) on a part-time basis to assist me in a secretarial capacity and also in helping with the numerous requests for assistance on legislative matters.

We are hoping to find a suitable district office in the near future. This will provide a place where I can be contacted and where I hope you will feel free to come for a visit.

Friday, September 20th was an important, though often unnoticed, legislative day. On that date the hundreds of bills passed in the '63 Legislative session became law. As of that day, for example, you could no longer legally color a baby chick or rabbit in California. Now if you shoot a mountain lion you may feel heroic, but you can't collect a State bounty. There are also many bills with more far-reaching impact. The Social Welfare Board has been stripped of its policy-making and rule-adoption powers and the Director of the Department has taken over this jurisdiction. A master plan for roadside rests took effect, and some 20 new agencies came into being.

If this year follows the usual pattern there will be a few lawmakers surprised at what some bills actually do and great confusion over others. 90,000 notaries in the State are anxiously trying to comply with the requirement for new seals in order that corporation documents will be valid. This bill was passed because the old embossed seal would not reproduce on a photograph. It was, in all probability, a necessary piece of legislation, but it certainly has upset the calm routine so prevalent in many rotary offices!

While Mrs. Way and I have enjoyed being home and meeting with many of you throughout the county the past few weeks, this comparatively leisurely pace is coming to an end as Senate Interim Committee work increases in tempo.

Hearings have been scheduled in the near future on Agriculture, Education and Social Welfare. We also have just returned from a three day hearing on water problems in Southern California.

In conversations with many of you it seems that these Interim Committee assignments are something with which you are not familiar. It has been most revealing to me to discover that it is in these Fact Finding Committees that much of the real legislative work takes place. Expert testimony is heard, studies in depth are conducted, and possible corrective legislation is formulated.

The work is intense and complicated yet very interesting and challenging. We attempted to spend as much time as possible at our County Fair last week, but a busy schedule kept us away much more than we had anticipated. However, it was a pleasant and relaxing time because so many of you stopped by our booth to rest and chat. Our efforts there were not as strenuous as last year when we were actively campaigning. I was amused when one lady opened her purse and wondered if she could trade in last year's model emery board for a fresh one.

In spite of the rain which dampened farmers' spirits, attendance at the Fair held up well and particularly enjoyed meeting and talking with many Pioneers on Wednesday.

PORTERVILLE LIBRARY LISTS NEW BOOKS

THE LAST LOVE, by Thomas Costain, will make many readers realize how little is known in detail of Napoleon's last years on St. Helena; this in sharp contrast to the over-all familiarity with the years of his fame. In filling this gap, Costain has performed a signal service. With his usual meticulous care for minutiae, he makes one feel the dreary horror of the virtual imprisonment, despite Napoleon's entourage and the semblance of formalities. The quarters were incredibly crude, rat infested, ugly, unhealthy; the food was wretched. Worst of all were the regulations. The one bright light was Betsy Balcombe, a hoydenish tomboy who happened to know enough French to act as interpreter — and who became his intimate and gay companion — until this too was forbidden. The story is based on slender threads of fact, and Costain does little to embroider it. A book-of-the-month selection.

A novel that is a wickedly deft dissection of the personalities and sex life of eight well-to-do Vassar-educated women in the 1930's is THE GROUP, by McCarthy. The women, who roomed near each other in their senior year, range from a very rich New York City society girl — one of Miss McCarthy's cruelest caricatures — to a rather sympathetically drawn Bostonian who suffers a bitter, short love affair. It heightens the satire that each woman's experiences are told as she sees them and in some cases in a style she would normally use. Some of the college allusions are special, but not enough to detract from the brilliant tour de force. One reviewer has termed this book "a stunning entertainment".

The gifted young German novelist, Gunter Grass, author of "The Tin Drum" has written another brilliant novel titled CAT AND MOUSE. This is a story of a Christ-like figure, a modest, good-hearted ugly teen-ager, a devout Catholic, growing up in a Baltic port city during World War II. In even the smallest details the author uses a pervasive symbolism which, though somewhat ambiguous, sets the scene for the teen-aged boy, a heroic figure who meets a mysterious end, but perhaps never died. The famous tin drum and its player are mentioned here, but only briefly, in passing.

Other novels received during the past month include: Joy in the Morning, by Betty Smith; Gift of Life, by Charles Mercer; Tears Are for Living, by Banister; The Lost Art, by Bernstein; Bride of Pen-dorric, by Holt; The Land of Rum-below, by Baker.

We now have something to sell that requires no watering, no mowing, no fertilizing and gets no insects. Makes an excellent ground cover, is fragrant, colorful, and safe to use. It's called pebble bark and is an ornamental bark material from the Sequoia Forest Products Company. Being larger pieces than forest humus or peat moss it gives the area a distinctive appearance.

This pebble bark can be used for its tropical effect, for that modern look, for paths and patios, or for mulching the soil. It also says on the bag that there is nothing better for covering play areas beneath swings or acting bars. Guaranteed to absorb the shock of falling children or young feeling adults. As a further bonus it has a true mountain fragrance which is not sprayed on but a true part of the product.

We invite you down for a smell or to gaze upon the many other things that are available for your pleasure. Bulbs, bedding plants, fall lawns, shrubs, and a lot of other jazz are all ready for you—on "E" Street—Porterville.

BUREAU MOVES TO SELL LAND IN CV PROJECT

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 26—First sale of "excess" lands within the Central Valley Project area will be started soon, according to E. F. Sullivan, assistant regional director of the federal bureau of reclamation.

Involved is about 8,100 acres of land, including property of the Divizich Fruit corporation at Ducor. Owners of the affected property have used Central Valley project water on irrigated land in excess of 160 acres for a period of 10 years; to get delivery of the water they agreed to either dispose of "excess" land within 10 years or allow the bureau of reclamation to sell the land.

Sullivan states that a number of land owners have complied by selling excess land — about 23,000 acres, in total; contracts on another 68,000 acres will be expiring in the near future.

Other properties involved in Tulare and Kern counties are owned by DiGorgio Fruit company, Caratan Inc., Maria C. Alver, Glenn and Goldie Reed, A. Perelli-Minetti and Sons, Ina B. Davis, Ina B. and Thomas A. Davis, and Mosesian Ranches.

TIPTON DAIRY HAS HIGH COW DURING JULY

VISALIA, Sept. 26—The July report of the Tulare County Dairy Herd Improvement Association lists a grade Holstein cow, owned by Circle J. B. Dairy, of Tipton, as having completed the highest lactation of any cow in the association during the month.

This grade Holstein cow produced 22,425 pounds of milk and 828.9 pounds of butterfat during her 305-day lactation, according to Carlos Cartledge, farm advisor of the Agricultural Extension service.

The leading first-calf heifer in the association to finish a lactation during the month of July was a grade Holstein, owned by Macedo Bros. & Enos, of Tulare. This heifer produced 15,955 pounds of milk and 663.6 pounds of butterfat during her 305-day lactation.

"OVER 21" OPENS AT BARN OCTOBER 4

PORTERVILLE, Sept. 26—"Over Twenty-One", a fast moving comedy by Ruth Gordon, will be the opening play of the 1963-64 Porterville Barn Theater season. A highly successful Broadway production in 1944, the play was once before done by the Barn, turning out to be a "smash hit", with Ann B. Davis, now a noted television actress starring.

Opening night is set for October 4, and additional performances will be given on October 5, 11, 12, 18 and 19. Curtain time for all performances is 8:15 p.m. Mrs. Elizabeth Dobson, of Exeter, is the director.

Gail Carroll, formerly of Bakersfield where she has been acting at the Art Classic Theater, is starred in the lead role of Paula Wharton. Playing opposite her is James Sistrunk, also of Porterville, who will be remembered for his role in "Dark of the Moon".

Ken Howard of Lindsay, Mary Bradley of Strathmore, and Oren O'Neill, Ken Parmales and Thelma Legace of Porterville are cast in supporting roles. Sally Evans of Exeter, and Porterville thespians Dixie Carington, Ken Richardson and Eldon Hunt have minor supporting parts.

RECORD TIMBER SALE FROM FORESTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26—More timber was sold for harvest from the National forests of California during the fiscal year just completed than in any previous year, Regional Forester Chas. A. Connaughton has announced.

In summing up the totals for the fiscal year of July 1, 1962-June 30, 1963, Connaughton reported that 1,877,635,000 board feet of timber was sold for approximately $21,026,000. Part of this will go to the counties where the National Forests are located, part will be used for reforestation and timber stand improvement work and the balance will go to the U.S. Treasury.

Connaughton pointed out that timber sold from the National Forests is harvested under approved practices designed to perpetuate the country's timber supply. Cutting is followed by reforestation and timber stand improvement work designed to increase tree growth in the forests and grow better trees.

Interested in paying for the services.

Persons who can offer either housing or job placement are asked to contact the dean's secretary, Mrs. Leona Hath, phone 784-7000, extension 66.

Wetting Agent Increases Kill By Weed Sprays

VISALIA, Sept. 26 — Wetting agents added to the spray mix can help increase a weed kill, according to University of California Farm Advisor Vince Schweers.

Most grass plants are difficult to wet because of a cuticle or waxy covering over the leaves, while many broadleaved plants have fine hair that covers the leaf surface. These coverings tend to make the spray form in round droplets that have a small area contact with the leaf surface. The smaller the area of contact, the smaller the amount of chemical in contact with the leaf and the poorer the chances are for the chemical to be absorbed. In extreme cases, the larger droplets that form can run off the leaf onto the soil.

Schweers says this is where the wetting agent helps increase the kill. They tend to spread the droplets out into a film over the leaf surface. The film gives better contact with the leaf and helps to penetrate the waxy covering.

Plants growing in direct sunlight, or under hot, dry conditions, usually have a thicker cuticle than those in the shade or under cool, moist conditions. This explains why early spring sprayings usually give better results than summer sprayings, when no wetting agent is added.

AGRICULTURE WORKERS TO BE RECRUITED

EXETER, Sept. 26 — The Tulare County Farmers association has completed a review of the labor needs in Tulare county for the fall and winter harvest activities starting with the Emperor Grape harvest which is moving into full swing now. This crop has in prospect above average production which is expected to pack out a reasonably high quality crop stated O. W. Fahrney, executive director of the Tulare County Farmers association.

The Olive crop in Tulare county is somewhat lighter than the large crop of last year but is expected to run to the larger sizes. The Olive harvest is expected to get under way around October 1, 1963. Both the Olive and the Grape crops will run through into mid-November and both crops can be expected to yield good earnings for workers.

The Navel orange harvest which will follow these two crops is one of the best crops we have had in years and will call for a larger labor force than has been needed the last three years. As the work decreases in the Orange harvest around the first of the year, workers will find employment in the pruning of trees and vines through January, February and March.

Fahrney stated that these harvest activities, together with other incidental farm work in Tulare county, will call for an increase of some 7,000 to 8,000 workers beginning around the first of October through to the first of the year.

ELK Calf Crop GOOD, SAYS DFG

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 26—This year's calf crop of the Tule elk in Owens valley is more than enough to offset last year's hunter take plus natural losses, the Department of Fish and Game has reported.

Approximately 18 cents out of every $1 of agricultural income in California is derived from export work force is available to effect an orderly harvest of these crops, the Farmers' association will again go into Northern California, Oregon and Washington to recruit workers from the tree fruit areas there. The recruitment program has in the past produced sufficient workers to meet our needs.

Fahrney stated that while the needs run somewhat higher this year, there is every reason to believe that additional workers can be attracted from these sources to meet demands.

Car dealers, along with boat and cycle dealers, will display their latest models on Main street, interspersed with antique cars from the Tulare County Horseless Carriage club.

Merchants will turn back the clock with sidewalk displays of goods, and organizations are invited to set up booths for sale of food, or other items. Any club or organization desiring space should contact Judie Pratt, at Judie's, phone 784-6011, to make reservations for space.

Stores will be open until 9 p.m. the night of October 18, with bargains and special prizes featured; Mystic Knights of the Supreme Order of Bushfaces will be in evidence throughout the event — in just what manner has not yet been determined.

A special events committee, headed by Robert Natzke, is meeting tomorrow night to organize activities along city streets.

Porter Putnam Day was started during Porterville's Centennial year to honor the memory of the city's founder, Royal Porter Putnam.

IT'S AN OLD HABIT

Capturing top honors at livestock shows and fairs is an old habit with Porterville area youngsters. In fact, it seems like we're always congratulating someone.

For example: Last month we extended our best to Bobby Bennett for having won reserve champion honors in the beef division at the California State Fair.

And now, both our hands are out in congratulations to the youngsters above for walking off with the grand championships in the steer and lamb classes at this year's county fair.

And with several more shows to come before the season is over — we suspect we're not through yet.

But, we don't mind. In fact, there is nothing we enjoy more, unless perhaps it's providing the feed which helps to produce their champions, which, by the way, we did.

MODEL CHURCH

The model was complete down to small detail, with colored glass windows in the church building, interior lights that switched on and off, walkways around the buildings through which the interior of the church can be seen, parking area around the church, and landscaped drives and gardens.

The exterior of the church is painted as it will be when completed.

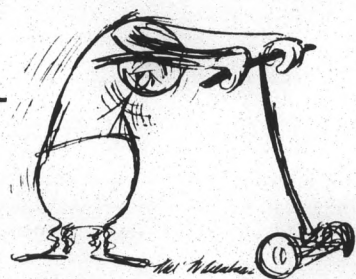

The church was designed, and plans and specifications were drawn in the Porterville office of Althouse-Strauss; it was here that Gary worked during the summer, spending an estimated three full weeks on the colorful and intricate church model.

But Gary, a senior at Mt. Whitney high school in Visalia, also worked with other models during the summer — model airplanes to be exact, and his "Ramrod 600" won a first place for him in the National Model Airplane Championships at the U.S. Naval Air Station, Los Alamitos, California. He also took two fourths in the national meet.

Working with him as his mechanic in the national model meet was his brother, Ron, a junior at Mt. Whitney, who, when asked what the job of a model airplane mechanic is, replied, "You carry the tool box, clean up around the place, and chase down the airplane when it lands."

Actually, he helped keep the

The lawn-mower's all right; it's the man who's out of condition. Your Heart Association says your muscles need regular exercise to stay in condition. Your heart is a muscle. Keep it in good condition too, with daily, moderate exercise.

WHEN MEMBERS of the Seventh Day Adventist church met last week to discuss fund raising for their new church, they saw an exact model of the proposed church, complete with colored glass windows, interior lighting, parking area, and landscaped drives. The model was the work of Gary Hover, a senior in Visalia's Mt. Whitney high school, who worked during the summer in the Porterville office of Althouse-Strauss, the firm that designed the church and drew plans and specifications. Models are not new to Hover, since he built a model home that received honorable mention in the Oakland Home and Garden show, and his hobby is building and flying model airplanes, topping the nation in model airplane championships last summer. Shown in upper photos are Hover and the Adventist church model; in lower photo are Hover, left, with his brother, Ron, and the airplanes that won national honors.

planes in flying order, but in national competition the contestant must start the engine and fly the plane.

In the event that Gary won his national championship, the plane is held on its tail for a vertical takeoff; the engine runs for 20 seconds; the plane gains its maximum altitude, then is timed in its glide to the ground.

Three flights are allowed, with a "maximum" time in the air of five minutes; if the maximum is made in each flight, then a fourth flight is allowed. Gary flew his plane for a total time of 24.40 minutes, while his second place competitor logged only 13 minutes. In the competition were 30 "pilots" from across the nation.

Interest in model airplanes came from Gary's father, Fred Hover, zoning administrator in the Tulare County Planning department, who has enjoyed the hobby most of his life. Gary has competed in meets since 1954, including two national meets, but his first national championship came last summer.

Gary, who is majoring in mechanical drawing, has also taken a try at building model homes, gaining an honorable mention with an entry in a recent Home and Garden show in Oakland.

So its churches, houses and airplanes for Gary — which will it be next summer?

Gary doesn't know now, but he hopes Althouse-Strauss has another job or two for him.

As for airplanes, however, he's got his mind made up. He's a champion now, and he's hoping to defend his title at the national championships next summer in Dallas, Texas.
